Title : There are good people everywhere in our city

There are good people everywhere in our city. They are always willing to help you when you are frustrated, or when you have a problem.

Yesterday, I woke up really late in the morning. To save time, I just brushed my teeth, changed into my school uniform and set off to school.

On the way, I felt a little uncomfortable like I forgot something, but the bus came and there was no time to worry. Then, I realized that I did not pack in my Octopus card! I knew the only solution was to get my wallet and use the few pennies I had, but I realized the astonishing truth—I also forgot to bring my wallet! The bus driver closed the bus doors and drove away.

I stood at the bus station helplessly. Should I walk to school? Or should I go back home to get the things I need? At last, I decided it would be most sensible to stay here and wait for help.

After a long time, I saw a middle-aged woman walk towards me. She asked kindly, 'Little girl, are you waiting for the bus?' 'Yes,' I replied 'But I don't have any money and I've left my Autopus card at home.' She told me she could help me pay for the ride. She also said that she doesn't need me to pay back.

Before I left the bus, I suddenly remembered that she has done me a great favour. I knew I had to thank her. I said, 'Thank you', and sent her a grateful smile. She returned my smile by saying, 'That's what I should do.'

After this experience, I have learnt that you should help people whenever you see people who need help, because they will be thankful of you, and you will be happy. Everyone will like you. There are good people everywhere in our city.
