Title: Grandpa's Birthday Surprise

Grandpa's sixtieth birthday is coming soon. I want to give him a birthday surprise. This will be the most unforgettable birthday he has ever had!

At first, I plan to cook Grandpa breakfast. He can have breakfast in bed! I will find a tray and put Grandpa's favourite breakfast, a salad egg sandwich and coffee on it, then give it to him. Grandpa will be so surprised! I don't want to cook Grandpa coffee actually. Coffee is bad for our health if we drink of it a lot. Maybe I will give him milk instead. It can make Grandpa's bones stronger. Grandpa will understand.

Next, I think I will throw Grandpa a party. But not just an ordinary one. We will do things that old people like to do! We will play chess. We will drink tea. We will do everything Grandpa likes to do. Maybe I will organise a Taiji competition too! I guess Grandpa will win though. He's an expert on Taiji! I've just been learning facts about it. I really have to know more about it.

Then, I will order special food and drinks, and presents too! I will order a birthday cake with two sugar statues on it, in front of a house, which will be Grandpa and Grandma. I've seen such a cake at Blueberry's Cake Shop. I will tell the saleslady there to squeeze 'Happy Birthday!' onto the cake with icing. It will be perfect! We will drink tea on the party, as I said just now. And the birthday presents will be fabulous! Mimi, my younger sister will buy Grandpa a game of Chinese chess, which he would play with his friends during weekends. Cyrus, my cousin will give him a new walking stick. Amy and Ally, the twins will get Grandpa a new pair of warm, comfy slippers. And for my present? I'll tell you later.

At last, we will go stargazing that night! We will go to my front yard, which is a great place for stargazing. We will lie on the grass, watching the stars and Grandpa, who is an expert on stars too might tell us more about the stars in the Milky Way. At that time, I will present my present - a brand new telescope to Grandpa. He can watch the stars more closely from now on, and he may discover new things of the mysterious space.

What a wonderful birthday Grandpa will have! I guess he will be very surprised about the surprises he will get, won't he?
