Title: My Grandfather's 60th Birthday

It is my Grandfather's 60th birthday very soon. We love each other dearly, so I have planned an unforgettable and meaningful schedule for his birthday. Here are some of my plans.

First, I will create a birthday card for him. The card will be very special, because I will make it myself. <sup>It is to</sup> show my gratitude to him for taking care of me for so many years. When I was little, he used to give me presents and toys on my birthday. I want to give something more than just a card to him for all his kindness. I have decided to cook a birthday meal entirely made by myself! I know what he likes to eat, and I searched on the Internet to find the recipes. I hope that he likes it.

Second, I have bought a new fishing boat for him. Fishing means a lot to him, because in the old days, he and Father always went fishing on the lakeshore nearby on quiet afternoons. His fishing boat is very old, and has very old equipment. I wanted him to have equipment that wasn't stuck with barnacles or rusty with age, so I picked a modern, comfortable and squeaky-clean boat for him. He may recall the happy father-and-son moments on his new boat!

Lastly, I have planned to throw a huge-celebration party for him. It will be held at his own house, where there will be snacks and drinks prepared. My cousin and I have begun sketching a birthday cake we were going to make. There will be nuts, sugar flowers and Grandfather's favourite food of all time — chocolate. We will sprinkle plenty of it over the top, won't Grandfather love it when he sees this! We planned some games too, suitable from people aged 60. There will also be a big banner that says '60 is GREAT!' on the wall. We will make sure everything goes perfectly.

I have always wanted to repay Grandfather's kindness, and this was a good chance. Planning a schedule for Grandfather reminded me of what did he do to me all these years. We will treasure <sup>little</sup> ~~the~~ time we have left to be together, <sup>to goodbye.</sup> the clock is ticking, and it is like a countdown. It will be an unforgettable and meaningful day for him.
